Introduction

Forum Financial Management, LP (“Forum”) is an investment adviser registered with the Securities and Exchange Commission. Forum provides advisory services rather than brokerage services. As our client, we feel it is important for you to understand the differences between brokerage and investment advisory services and how the fees differ. Additionally, free and simple tools are available to research firms and financial professionals at Investor.gov/CRS, which also provides educational materials about investment advisers, broker-dealers, and investing.

What investment services and advice can you provide me?

Forum offers investment advisory services to retail investors for an ongoing fee, based on the value of the managed assets of the investment accounts. Our advisory services include portfolio management, financial planning, and qualified plan services. Additional information about our advisory services can be found in Item 4 of our ADV Part 2A.

If you become a client of Forum, your financial professional will review your current financial situation, financial goals, and risk tolerance. Based on these findings, an investment portfolio will be agreed upon between you and your financial professional. Your portfolio will be continually monitored and rebalanced as needed. Additionally, you and your financial professional will have ongoing conversations to review your financial plan and discuss any changes to your financial situation and their impact on your investment portfolio.

Forum primarily uses Dimensional Fund Advisors and Vanguard funds to implement client portfolios. We manage investment accounts on a discretionary basis, which means Forum will decide which investments to buy or sell for your account. To become a client of Forum, you will sign an Investment Advisory Agreement that gives Forum discretionary authority. This agreement remains in place until you or Forum terminate the relationship. Forum has a limited number of non-discretionary accounts where the client makes the decision regarding which investments to purchase or sell.

Ask Your Financial Professional

- Given my financial situation, should I choose an investment advisory service? Why or why not?
- How will you choose investments to recommend to me?
- What is your relevant experience, including your licenses, education and other qualifications?
- What do these qualifications mean?

What fees will I pay?

The following summarizes the fees and costs associated with becoming a client of Forum. Please ask your financial professional to give you personalized information on the fees and costs that you will pay.

1. Advisory Management Fee - An ongoing management fee is calculated quarterly, typically in arrears, based on the value of the investments in your account. Fees are generally deducted directly from your investment accounts. Since the fees Forum receives are based on the value of your account, we have an incentive to increase your account value.
2. Mutual Fund Expenses - Mutual funds have internal operating expenses and fees. Details regarding these fees can be found in the fund’s prospectus.
3. Custodial Fees - The broker-dealer (custodian) holding your investment accounts can charge transaction-based fees when we buy or sell an investment for you. Additionally, the broker-dealer could charge account maintenance fees for holding your accounts for certain investments and maintaining your account. The broker-dealer’s transaction fees are in addition to, and separate from, Forum’s management fee.

You will pay fees and costs whether you make or lose money on your investments. Fees and costs will reduce any amount of money you make on your investments over time. Please make sure you understand what fees and costs you are paying. Additional information about our fees can be found in Item 5 of our ADV Part 2A.

Ask Your Financial Professional

- Help me understand how these fees and costs might affect my investments.
- If I give you $10,000 to invest, how much will go to fees and costs, and how much will be invested for me?

What are your legal obligations to me when acting as my investment adviser?

How else does your firm make money and what conflicts of interest do you have?

When we act as your investment adviser, we have to act in your best interest and not put our interest ahead of yours. At the same time, the way we make money creates some conflicts with your interests. You should understand and ask us about these conflicts because they can affect the investment advice we provide you. Here is an example to help you understand what this means.

Conflicts may arise when a financial professional of Forum is also a registered representative with an unaffiliated broker-dealer and/or licensed as an insurance agent. This individual could receive commission-based compensation in connection with the purchase and sale of securities and/or insurance-related products unrelated to Forum. These individuals do not receive any commission-based compensation associated with the funds you have invested at Forum. Any commission-based compensation earned by these individuals for products sold outside of Forum is separate and in addition to Forum's management fee. These practices present conflicts of interest because there is a financial incentive to recommend certain products to you outside of the advisory services provided through Forum.

Additional information about our conflicts of interest can be found in Item 11, among others, of our ADV Part 2A and disclosed in the financial professional's ADV Part 2B (Item 4) under Outside Business Activities.

Ask Your Financial Professional

- How might your conflicts of interest affect me, and how will you address them?

How do your financial professionals make money?

The financial professional servicing your investments is compensated based on the amount of assets they service — receiving a portion of revenue that Forum receives for the advisory services provided. Additionally, certain financial professionals are registered representatives with a broker-dealer and/or licensed as insurance agents. These individuals receive commission-based compensation on the investments or insurance products sold in these separate capacities, which is separate and apart from the fees earned for advisory services through Forum.

Do you or your financial professionals have legal or disciplinary history?

Our firm does not have any legal or disciplinary history; however, we do have one financial professional with a personal bankruptcy. This event is disclosed in our Form ADV and the specific individual's Form U4. These documents can be found by going to Investor.gov/CRS.

Ask Your Financial Professional

- As a financial professional, do you have any disciplinary history?
- For what type of conduct?

Forum Financial Management, LP is required to update its Form CRS when information in the Form CRS becomes materially inaccurate. This Exhibit summarizes the following material changes to the firm's Form CRS, implemented on August 23, 2021.

Investment Services and Advice Provided

The question regarding the investment services and advice provided by Forum has been updated. Previously, we stated that Forum primarily used Dimensional Fund Advisors and Vanguard institutional mutual funds to implement client portfolios. In June 2021, Dimensional launched several exchange-traded funds, which Forum has incorporated into our portfolios. This section has been updated to encompass the use of both mutual funds and exchange-traded funds.

Legal or Disciplinary History for Financial Professionals

The question regarding legal or disciplinary history for our financial professionals has been updated. Previously, we disclosed that we had one financial professional with disciplinary history (an event that occurred at an unaffiliated firm in 1999). In April 2021, this individual retired from Forum, and as such, we removed this information from our ADV and Form CRS.
